Pacifism is Move for Bolshevism, Says American Legion Head
Indianapolis, April 3.—Extreme pacifism extended to movements among women and children of America is being used as a tool of Bolshevism and radicalism, Garland W. Powell, director of the national American Legion commission of the American Legion, declared today.
Mr. Powell warned legatnaires against a national anti-war campaign directed by the Woman's society.
The Women's Peace Union of the Western Hemisphere and the Fellowship of Youth for Peace organizations are other bodies seeking similar ends, he was said. Mr. Powell asserted the movement is finding fertile field among school children.

FORMER SENATOR CHAS. A. RAWSON OF IOWA
Senator Rawson has been selected Republican national committee-man for Iowa to succeed John T. Adams, who has served in this capacity for twelve years, and declined to be a candidate for reelection. Mr. Adams has been chairman of the national committee since 1921, a position which has required his entire attention.

Liquor Seller is Given 2-Year Term
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Danville, Ill., April 3.—Mike Murgie, East St. Louis, convicted in federal court here two weeks ago of selling whiskey in his soft drink place, was today sentenced by Judge Lindley to two years in the Leavenworth penitentiary and fined $3,000. An appeal was taken and Murgie was released on $5,000 bonds.
Andrew Beshekes, East St. Louis, now serving six months on a liquor charge, pleaded guilty today to another charge and received another six months sentence and a fine of $500. His first sentence carried a fine of $1,000.
Oscar Greathouse of Marion contained the nasal found in his possession was used for hog feed and that he had found it by the side of the road. Judge Lindley directed a verdict of not guilty.
Dry raiders last February found some bottles in the home of Emil Moroni, of Johnston City, and charged him with possession of liquor. The government chemist found the stuff was vinegar and the charge against him was nulled today.

Small Asks Voters to Defeat Brundage
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, April 3.—A plea for defeat of Attorney General E. J. Brundage was the keynote of Governor Small's campaign speech here today. He urged his audience to place Oscar Carlstrom of Aleo on the ballot as the republican nominee for the Attorney Generalship.
"Effective administration of state government has been blocked and hindered at every turn by the conduct of the Attorney General during the past four years," the Governor said. "Selfish interests of Chicago which control the Attorney General have consented to his renomination and have supported his campaign with splendid contributions."

FORTY VOICES IN CHOIR WHICH IS TO SING IN CITY

Moline Organization to Give Cantata in St. Paul's on Sunday.

The program of "The Woman of Samaria," the sacred cantata by William Sterndale Bennett which is to be given at 7 o'clock next Sunday evening by the choir of the First Lutheran church, Moline, Ill., at St. Paul's Lutheran church, Dixon, has been received and promises an unusual treat to Dixon music lovers. The cantata was given in Moline on the evening of March 19th.
It will be rendered by a chorus of forty voices, with Otto B. Bostrom, Ph. D., as director and Grace Lindberg, organist, and the following assisting artists: Minnie Nelson, soprano; Maude Ames Goodsell, contralto; Eugene Leonardson, baritone; Agnes Wallin, pianist.
The program is as follows:
Introduction—Instrumental (with Chorus in unison): "Ye Christian People, Now Rejoice."
Recitative—Contralto: "Then Cometh Jesus."
Chorus—"Blessed be the Lord God of Israel."
Recitative—Contralto and bass: "There Cometh a Woman of Samaria."
Chorus—"For With Thee is the Well of Life."
Recitative—Contralto and soprano: "The Woman Saith Unto Him, Sir, Thou Hast Nothing to Draw With."
Air—Soprano: "Art Thou Greater Than Our Father Jacob?"
Recitative—Contralto and bass: "Jesus Answered and Said Unto Her."
Air—Bass: "Whosoever Drinketh of This Water."
Chorus—"Therefore With Joy Shall Ye Draw Water."
Recitative—Bass, contralto and soprano: "Jesus Saith Unto Her, Go Call Thy Husband."
Air—Contralto: "O Lord, Thou Hast Searched Me Out."
Recitative—Contralto, soprano and bass: "The Woman Saith Unto Him, Sir, I Perceive that Thou Art a Prophet."
Chorus—"Therefore They Shall Come and Sing."
Chorus (unaccompanied)—"God is a Spirit."
Recitative, Contralto, soprano and bass: "The Woman Saith Unto Him, I Know that Messiah Cometh."
Chorus—"Who is the Image of the Invisible God?"
Recitative—Contralto and soprano: "The Woman then Left the Water-pot."
Chorus—"Come, O Israel."
Air—Soprano: "I Will Love Thee, O Lord."
Recitative—Contralto: "And Many of the Samaritans Believed."

Garman and Bremer Purchase Saratoga; to Reopen It Soon

Harry Garman and Ben Bremer have purchased the Saratoga restaurant which was sold recently at a bankruptcy sale, and are having the place completely overhauled. New equipment is arriving daily and when all of the furnishings have been installed, the place will be one of the most modern eating establishments in this section.

All of the old fixtures have been removed and are to be replaced with new ones of the latest design. The dining room is being redecorated as well as the kitchen. New ranges are being installed today and the management hopes to be able to formally open the restaurant, which will continue to be known as the Saratoga, with dinner Sunday. The proprietors are both Dixon men and have a host of friends who will unite in wishing them success in their new venture. Mr. Garman is an experienced chef, having served in this capacity with the American Expeditionary Forces in the world war. His partner, Ben Bremer, is known to many in this vicinity, he having been one of the star athletes in high school circles in recent years.

LaVerne Messer Married in the East

Dixon friends have received news of the wedding of LaVerne Teale Messer and Miss Helen Pomeroy, which took place on the evening of March 29th, in Brooklyn, N. Y. At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fitch, cousins of the bridegroom.
The Rev. Dascumb E. Forbush of the Brooklyn Congregational church performed the ceremony in the presence of about twenty guests.
The home was beautifully decorated in pink and white, with a profusion of flowers.
Mr. Oldegard of Columbia College, a friend of Mr. Messer, played the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin and following the ceremony, Miss Isabel Burns, a friend of Mrs. Messer's, of the Metropolitan Opera Co., sang, "The Vren," as the wedding song.
An hour of dancing followed the congratulations, after which a dainty supper was served.
The bridegroom, formerly one of Dixon's popular boys, with hosts of friends here, is a son of F. H. Messer of West Second street, and the charming bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Pomeroy of Lee Center, Ill.
Mr. Messer is a student at the Art Students League of New York City, and he and his bride will make their temporary home in an apartment near his place of work.
Their friends in Dixon and vicinity unite in expressing every good wish for the future happiness of this young couple.

Nurses Alumni Was Entertained

The Nurses Alumni held a pleasant meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles Koch of Peoria avenue, with Miss Catherine Vaile as assistant hostess.

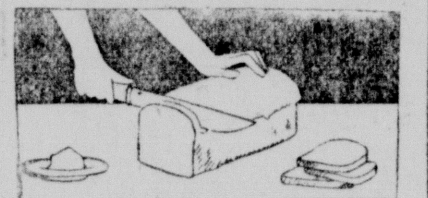

A short business meeting was held and a most tempting luncheon was served. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing bridge.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Turpentine.
Shades of red and green may be set in cotton cloth by dipping the material in turpentine.

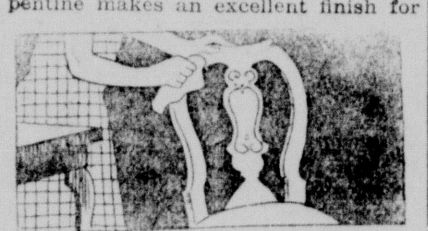

Clean Currants.
Clean currants for a cake by putting into a colander with a sprinkling of flour and rubbing the fruit about with your fingers.

Sandwiches.
For making sandwiches be sure you have a sharp knife, bread at least a day old and softened butter.

Fine Finish.
A good floor wax dissolved in turpentine makes an excellent finish for furniture finished with wax such as fumed and Flemish oak. It should be applied sparingly and rubbed in thoroughly.

Add Cornstarch.
When making candy add a tablespoonful of cornstarch to every two cups of sugar and your result will be a finely textured and creamy mixture.

CIRCLE TO HOLD EVENING MEETING—

The C. C. Circle will hold an evening meeting Thursday at 7:30, at the home of Mrs. George Nettz, 517 Brinton avenue.

Total calories, 1137. Protein, 292; fat, 264; carbohydrate, 581. Iron, .0174 gram.

Asparagus Omelet.
Two eggs, 2 tablespoons hot water, 1 teaspoon butter, salt and pepper, 2 tablespoons asparagus tips.

Separate yolks from whites of eggs and beat yolks until thick and lemon colored with the hot water. Beat in sugar and pepper. Beat whites on a platter until stiff and dry and fold in yolk mixture.

Melt butter in hot frying pan, turn in egg mixture and cook like any omelet. Just before folding and slipping to hot platter cover half the omelet with the cooked and seasoned asparagus. Fold and serve at once. The stalks of the asparagus should be used for soup for the rest of the family.

Total calories, 224. Protein, 61; fat, 163; carbohydrate, 10. Iron, .0034 gram.

GAIN WEIGHT.
One-half grapefruit with sugar, 4

backwheat pancakes, 4 ounces fresh country sausage, 4 tablespoons maple syrup, 4 tablespoons apple sauce, asparagus omelet with 4 tablespoons creamed asparagus, 6 radishes, 1 cup cream of mushroom soup, 1/2 broiled spring chicken, 2 new potatoes in cream sauce, 4 tablespoons French fried onions, 1 cup fruit salad with 4 tablespoons whipped cream dressing, 4 tablespoons apple snow with 4 tablespoons boiled custard, 4 tablespoons rice pudding with sugar and 1/4 cup cream, 2 bran muffins, two 2-inch squares corn bread, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 pint whole milk.

Total calories, 4136. Protein, 472; fat, 1626; carbohydrate, 2082. Iron, .0183 gram.

The tender stalks of the asparagus should be cut in inch pieces and cooked in water to cover until tender. Add to cream sauce and pour over omelet. Any water remaining in the pan in which the asparagus was cooked can be used in the sauce.

Plenty of butter and half asparagus liquor and half cream make a delicious rich sauce. When the liquor is used this way none of the value of the vegetable is lost.

The rice pudding is made with milk, eggs and raisins, the more raisins the better. It is served warm with sugar and cream.

TAT-POCHON CAMP

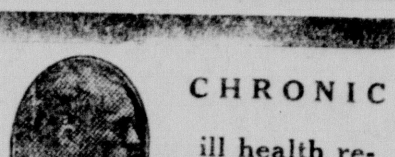

FIRE TO GIVE PROGRAM—

The Tat-Pochon Camp Fire girls of the Methodist church, Amboy, will present an excellent program in the opera house, Tuesday evening, April 15. The program includes a demonstration of the work of the camp, display of Camp costumes, songs, tableaux, etc. The famous six-reel picture of outdoor life entitled, "The Deerslayer," by James Fenimore Cooper has been secured for the evening. This picture has been characterized as an "epic drama that will endure for all time." It is a virile, wholesome, uplifting drama that is filled with courage that is moral as well as physical.

Woman's Auxiliary to Presbyterian Church

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Presbyterian church held a pleasant meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. H. C. Pitney, the committee for the month, acting with her being Mrs. E. M. Goodsell, Mrs. H. A. Roe, Mrs. O. L. Rogers, Mrs. O. F. Goeke, Mrs. W. E. Woods, Miss Gertrude Youngman.

During the business meeting plans for a rummage sale were made. Some business was disposed of and a social hour followed with the serving of refreshments.

Miss Helen Wellman Married Mark Smith

One of the pretty weddings of the season was solemnized at the Walter Wellman home, Ransom, Ill., at high noon, March 29th, when Rev. Crumbaker united in marriage Miss Helen M. Wellman, daughter of W. H. Wellman of Lee Center, Ill., to Mark B. Smith, son of the former mayor, Mark B. Smith of Dixon.

The bride was attired in a gown of beige canton crepe and carried Ophelia roses. The bride's maid, sister of the bride, Miss Grace Wellman, wore Air-dale crepe-de-chaine and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. The groom's attendant was Howard Wellman of Plano, Ill.

Walter Wellman, brother of the bride sang, "Oh Promise Me," before the ceremony. Miss Wright presided at the piano, and the bridal party descended the stairs to the strains of Lohengren's wedding march.

The house was artistically decorated in pink and white roses and the pretty ceremony was performed under a canopy.

After the ceremony a three-course wedding breakfast was served by the hostess.

Mrs. Smith, the bride, is a graduate of the Lee Center High school, also having attended Normal schools. The past few years she has been a capable teacher in the intermediate grades of the Franklin Grove public school.

Mr. Smith is a graduate of the North Dixon High school, also an Illinois University man. Mr. Smith is associated with his father in the general contracting business in Dixon.

The young couple left for a short honeymoon in Chicago and will be at home to their many friends after April 10th, at Lee Center.

The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Mark D. Smith and Miss Dora Smith of Dixon; Misses Grace and Mary Wellman, W. H. Wellman of Lee Center; Mrs. Flach of Amboy, and Howard Wellman of Plano, Ill.

St James Aid Soc. Pleasantly Entertained

The St. James Aid was pleasantly entertained by Mrs. Chas. Bremner on Wednesday.

Though the roads were very muddy seventeen ladies were present to enjoy the afternoon.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Bahren, who took the scripture reading from Psalms, followed by all repeating the 23rd Psalm: "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" was sung in unison.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved and roll call given, each member responding with a Biblical verse. The dues were also collected.

Mrs. S. Spangler extended the Aid a vote of thanks for the flowers sent to her during her recent illness.

Another song was sung and as there was no further business the meeting was adjourned by all repeating the Lord's prayer.

The members of the Aid then busied themselves knitting a quilt, which is to be sold for the benefit of the Aid.

The hostess served a very delicious luncheon after which the members and guests of the Aid took their departure after having enjoyed a delightful afternoon.

Social Circle Had Regular Meeting

Mrs. Otto Watts of Chamberlain street entertained the members of the Prairieville Social Circle at her home yesterday, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Emma Wilson, in entertaining the eight members, eight visitors and four children. Spring flowers in bouquets were gracefully disposed about the house. An exceptionally enjoyable picnic dinner was served. After dinner the business meeting held and one new member was added to the roll, Mrs. Ray Krieder of Sterling. She gave much pleasure to all present in the three solos she sang, playing her own accompaniment, and later she and Mrs. Edith Myers of Prairieville delighted all with a vocal duet.

At the meeting yesterday plans were discussed for holding the regular two meetings each month during the summer months, and making each meeting an afternoon session.

Heretofore during the summer but one all-day meeting was held each month. The next meeting will be held three weeks from yesterday—the place not yet decided on.

As the afternoon shadows lengthened all sought their homes, after a very happy day.

Y. P. M. S. Meeting Tuesday Evening

The Y. P. M. S. of the M. E. church held a very pleasant meeting Tuesday evening with Miss Margaret Coughney at her home on Crawford avenue. Thirty-five were present and enjoyed the picnic supper which was served at 6:45.

The home was prettily decorated with snapdragons for the occasion. Rev. A. S. Moore had charge of the devotions. After the regular business session Victrola music was enjoyed.

The study lessons in charge of Leon Garrison and Earl Kennedy were interesting and instructive. A social hour followed in which games were played.

DIXON WOMAN'S CLUB TO MEET—

The Dixon Woman's club will meet at the St. Paul's Lutheran church Saturday afternoon at 2:30. The Music department has found it necessary to make a change in their program, and Mrs. Fordham will give a book review. A meeting of the executive board is called for 2:15.

PASS FIFTY-FIFTH YEAR IN WEDLOCK—

Mr. and Mrs. John Boyungs, residents of Galt for the past thirty-six years, observed their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary Tuesday at their home. The occasion was quietly observed on account of the condition of Mr. Boyungs, who has been confined to his bed for the past three weeks. A few relatives and friends called during the afternoon and spent several hours socially with them.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Boyungs are natives of Germany. They were married in that country where their six children were born. Thirty-six years ago they came to this country and settled in Galt where they have since resided.

Mr. Boyungs is 81 years old and Mrs. Boyungs is 79 years. The latter is able to be around, although her sight has been failing recently. Their six children are Henry Boyungs, Mrs. Frank Heiminger, Ed. Boyungs of Sterling, Minn. Boyungs of Dixon, Mrs. Garrett Hams of Como and Mrs. Paul Neubauer of Iowa.

LOOKS LIKE BUSY JUNE IN EUROPE!

Copyright, Harris & Ewing

Leap year probably will see at least three royal weddings in Europe. And no doubt it will steal away a marriageable sons and daughters of the kings and queens of Italy and Belgium. The deposters on the imperial match-making figure it all out like this: Prince Nicholas of Rumania, and Princess Paflada, Victor Emmanuel's second daughter, shown on the right, will go to the altar first. Then there will be a double wedding which Princess Marie of Belgium becomes the bride of Humbert, Italian crown prince, center, and Princess Gloriana, Marie's younger sister, becomes the wife of Leopold, Albert's eldest son and heir to the Belgian throne.

The couple has forty grand children and three great grand children.

Rev. W. J. Voeltz, pastor of the German Lutheran church, was present and during the afternoon read a verse from the scripture. Refreshments were also served.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyungs received several bouquets of beautiful flowers and numerous cards and congratulations from friends and relatives who were unable to be present.

THE WAY TO RECOVER.

Theodore H. Price, editor of Commerce and Finance, looking into business conditions in the northwest, has found them not so bad as he had expected, because of the spirit in which the people of that hard-hit region are facing the situation. He has also found what a diplomacy would be called a formula. It is credited to a Minnesota merchant, who says his neighbors are learning that "early to bed and early to rise—work like hell and economize" is the best way to recover from their business depression.

It is the best way for any section or community that finds itself temporarily in trouble. It is the best way for this country or any other country. The formula is respectfully recommended to Europe, which really seems to be gaining something of the spirit needed for revival, but has not yet put it into inspired words. The whole world needs that formula.

CHIVALRY, THEN AND NOW.

A contemporary, speaking of a law that requires autoists to stop and ascertain the extent of the injuries caused if they strike any person, remarks that in the olden days no such laws were necessary; that the courtesy and chivalry of knighthood were enough.

While anything that will promote care in the use of the road and enforcement of the law against the reckless is to be welcomed, it is to be questioned if it is altogether fair to our race today to picture it as requiring statute laws where courtesy and chivalry were enough before. A glance over the Mosaic law gives the impression that there were some among the ancients who needed official orders to supply a lack of chivalric feeling. In addition to the good manners detailed in the commandments, there also is something said about an eye for an eye and a tooth. The story of the Good Samaritan also refers to some types of old that would pass by on the other side of a man found wounded in the road.

The mere thought of what the Stone Age boys might have done if they had had automobiles is enough to make one tremble. The reckless and unchivalrous surely can be handled today without casting reflection upon the entire race every time one of the comparatively few heartless individuals discloses himself. The average American today has considerable chivalry.

THE SUPER-EINSTEIN.

After Einstein, it appears, comes a greater than Einstein—or at least, a scientist of wier-der and more radical beliefs. And we may take a proper pride in the fact that he is an American—Calvin S. Page of Chicago, chosen for the latest Nobel prize in physics.

Mr. Page seems to accept some of Einstein's conclusions, but disregards others, and goes beyond him in working out novel theories.

For one thing, he surprises ordinary folk by announcing that sound, light, electricity and other modes of vibration are all color.
Radio waves, he explains, are merely "super-light."

This, however, sounds to a layman like a quibble on words. It is well known that sounds we hear are comparatively slow vibrations; that when the vibrations increase in rapidity beyond 16,000 waves per second, we can not hear them; that after an inaudible band of waves, as they increase in frequency, we begin to see them as colors; and then, after the vibrations become too rapid for the eye or any other organ to perceive,
they manifest themselves as light, electricity,
X-rays, radio vibrations, etc.

It doesn't seem to matter much what any one calls them, whether all light, all sound, all electricity or what not. Other creatures seem to perceive sounds, colors and possibly other grades of vibrations of which we are unconscious. An angel, conceivably, may have organs to perceive radio waves. With as it is, for practical purposes, merely a question of having organs or other devices to perceive whatever vibrations, of any intensity, may be useful to us.

Mr. Page also turns gravity inside out, maintaining that we are held to the earth not by its pull, but by the push of the outer universe. That might be very disturbing if the practical effect on us were not precisely the same.

* THE CURTAIN OF MYSTERY.

The skeleton of a prehistoric woman, a gaintess eight feet tall, has been dug up in the Salmon River country of Idaho. Scientists are excited about the find. The skeleton probably will wind up in a museum, to be seen by only a small portion of the public.

What a pity, old P. T. Barnum isn't alive to popularize these scientific discoveries by making people pay admission to see them.
One reason of the unpopularity of knowledge is that it's free.

The mysterious past is rapidly giving up its secrets. The skulls found recently in California belonged to people who lived before the glacial period about 20,000 years ago, according to latest estimates.

Another big find is made by the Nevada mining engineer, John T. Reid. Two years ago he discovered what looked like a fossil of the sole of a shoe. It even had marks of holes punched for thread. This fossil was found in rock millions of years old. It's a scientific mystery. Experts decide it may be a freak of nature. They don't think people lived that long ago.

Reid's latest find is the fossil of a horse's foot. This fossil is annoying the scientists.
They had it all figured out that the horse originally was a cat-sized animal with four toes on each foot, and that evolution gradually turned it into the modern big beast with toes gone and hoofs in their place. The fossil found by Reid should have toes. Instead, it's like the modern horse's foot. Quite a puzzle.

Science reminds us of a small boy, happiest when he is rooting around in an old attic. You have observed how scientists are delighted when they find an ancient fossil from which they can reconstruct the past.

Maybe you've also noticed the tendency, of science, to pay a thousand times as much attention to the mysteries of the past as to the great mystery of the future—namely, what happens to us after death.

CONTAGIOUS.

A Baker in New York, who has been handling food for 18 years, is a chronic typhoid carrier, it's discovered. A typhoid carrier spreads the disease without succumbing to it himself. Maybe you remember "Typhoid Mary."

In New York alone 150 of these typhoid carriers are under observation by the health board. They very thought makes shivers run up a healthy person's back. On the other hand, no one pays much attention to that far greater menace, the moral lepers whose six writings are infecting the rising generation's brains and morals. There are more diseases of morals and brains than of the body.

MORE HOKUM.

An inventor in Vienna announces that he has perfected a flying machine that flaps its wings like a bird. He says his plane can rise straight up in the air, also that it's fool-proof and virtually unable to fall. All he needs now is a backer with money.

You'll join us in wishing you had a dollar for every one of these miraculous discoveries that shoot into the limelight like a skyrocket and 99 times out of 100 never are heard of again.

The well informed girl doesn't catch a husband as quickly as the well formed girl.

NO. 17—MISTER PUNCH HUNTS JUDY

"Did you see Judy and the baby?" he repeated.

"Did anybody see Judy and the baby?" asked Mister Punch.

Mister Punch looked very funny, dressed in a sort of red and yellow gown, and a high peaked hat with tassels on the side.

"Did you see Judy and the baby?"
he repeated. "I thought that after I'd thrown them out of the window they might come to Doofunny Land. Such queer people come here to live, and Judy was certainly a queer 'un."

Nancy and Nick looked at Mister Punch and then at Mister Fuzz Wuzz, and then at Mister Punch again. They didn't know a word he was talking about.

"If you do find Judy," said Mister Fuzz Wuzz, "what do you intend to do with her?"

"Oh!" cried Mister Punch, the tears starting to his eyes, "I intend to give her my stick and let her belabor me for a while. I'm sorry I treated her so. I never meant to, but after Toby bit me on the nose I kind of got mixed up in my head and didn't know what I was doing. Do you want me to tell you about it?"

"Oh, yes!" cried both Twins eagerly.
"Please do, Mister Punch. It sounds just fine."

"Other people's troubles always do," declared Mister Punch with a grimace. "But sit down and I'll begin at the beginning."

"One fine day I got ready to take Judy and the baby for a walk. Judy was my wife and the baby was our only child."

"Well, I waited and waited and waited, and every time I called to her to hurry up, she would call back,
"Just a minute, Mister Punch, just one more minute."

"I was looking out of the window
while I was waiting, and a showman passed with his dog Toby. Toby saw me and jumping up my stairs, he bit me right on my nose."

"Well, that made me awfully mad so I hit him and threw him out of the window."

"Up came the showman, and he yelled, 'Why do you throw my dog Toby out of the window?' And with that he gave me a good beating with a stick—this very stick I have in my hand."

"Well, I grabbed the stick and hit him and then threw him out of the window."

"Just then Judy came in with the baby and I guess I had gotten the habit, for I grabbed the baby and threw it out of the window, and next I beat poor Judy and threw her out, too! Oh, I was a terrible fellow!"

"After that I ran out, and knocked down everybody I met—a doctor and two policemen, and a whole lot of people, and they put me into jail;
but I got out and I've been hunting for Judy ever since. I want to tell her that I'm sorry. And I do hope the poor baby isn't hurt. It isn't good for babies to throw them out of the window."

"Well, I should like to help you, my dear Mister Punch," said Mister Fuzz Wuzz kindly, "but so far Mrs. Judy

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRES-COTT TO ALICE HAMILTON

DEAR LITTLE SISTER:
Of course I was very much surprised when your cable came telling me of your engagement to Karl and then, thinking over the matter, I decided that I oughtn't to be surprised, for I think, my dear, you always intended to marry him.

Don't be angry at that: I do not mean it as crudely as it sounds.

Most girls intend to marry the men they do marry long before the men themselves have the slightest inkling of what is before them.

Had I never met Jack, probably some day I would have married Karl myself, but having met my husband I could of no more married any other man than I could have taken my own life.

I am sure I hope you will be very happy, Alice dear, and I see no reason why you will not, for you are going to marry one of the best men in all this world, the man who will probably live only to make you happy.

I am glad for your sake that he is rich, for I do not think that you could be very happy without money. I remember that you said as much when I married Jack.

Of course I am glad that Karl gave you another string of pearls "better than the ones he gave me," but honestly dear, I am a little bit sorry that you told me of it in your first cable. It makes me feel as though you always envied me the pearls.

When you come home if you wish them I will give them back to you as your wedding present. I have lost a few of them as perhaps you know, but because of my ignorance of their worth at first, and my knowledge of their wealth after, they have always been of great annoyance and sorrow to me. I really wish you would take them. I have not worn them for a great while and I would be much happier if they were not reposing in my jewel safe.

You will probably not have time to answer this letter for mother cables me that you are sailing very soon.

I know that you will be mad over my baby, Alice, he is the sweetest thing on this earth.

Yesterday I am almost sure he said
"Mamma," although Jack laughed at he and insisted that he only had a pain in his little tummy.

What a lovely time you have had this last year. You have been presented at the English court and had all the attention paid to you that any girl could wish, and now you are coming back to marry one of the nicest and richest young men in America. I hope you appreciate your blessings.

I expect mother will cable when you start. Jack and I and the baby will try to be at the pier to meet you all.

I shall be very glad to get my family home again.

Lovingly,
LESLIE.

GETTING UP NIGHTS

Tells you there is danger ahead. A healthy bladder does not act at night.

J. H. Dorton, W. Graham, Va., says: "I had to get up seven or eight times at night for forty years. I thought it was my age. After taking Lithiated Buchu a short time, I am alright."
Lithiated Buchu cleanses the bladder as Epsom
Salt does the bowels, thereby relieving irritation, driving out foreign matter and neutralizing excessive acids. These are the causes of unnatural action of the bladder at night. Lithi-ated Buchu (Keller Formula) is not a cheap medicine. The tablets cost 2 cents each. Sold

The HOOVER

It BEATS... as it Sweeps as it Cleans

DIRT in a home may be a woman's problem, but it's a man's responsibility. For it will cease to be there when he supplies her with efficient means to remove it. Regularly, she sweeps and dusts; she spares no effort. But most of the dirt is beyond her reach with a broom. It is embedded deep in the nap of the rugs. It is the dirt that only beating will dislodge. And without a Hoover she can't beat rugs regularly, and often. Until she owns a Hoover your rugs will be a hiding place for dirt. And it's the dirt you both want most to be rid of. It's sharp-edged; it cuts rug nap. It's germ-laden, a constant source of disease. Let us show you the new model, with its ten added features. You can buy it on such easy terms that paying for it is no problem at all.

Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Bible reading and meditation prepared for Commission on Evangelism of Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

THURSDAY
The Good Workman and the

Will of God.

Read Mt. 5:17-20. Text: 5:19. But whosoever shall do and each them (these commandments) he shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven. "Furthermore the will of God is always rising in him to summon him to

of an honest, friendly, powerful world, a world civilization all of whose laws, work with it in the creative evolution customs, and institutions shall be in accord with these fundamental qualities of life."

MEDITATION: The greatness of one's life is measured by his contribution through his labor to the upbuilding of the Kingdom of God. The work of the Kingdom of God requires that much labor be done out of sight and sound, the results of which become evident only long afterwards. When we know so little about the ultimate purposes of life we cannot always know how best to build our own lives most effectively into the Kingdom. But we can accept the principles which Jesus gave us and follow them, knowing that if our lives are expended in that direction the ultimate fruitage of our labors will be good.

PERSONAL QUESTION: Am I patient in doing today's duties while knowing tomorrow's rewards? PRAYER: Fill our hearts, O with a great longing to accomplish things that count in the Kingdom. Let our constant aspiration be to know and to do thy will. May we be happy children of morning and achieving men of day, in Christ's name Amen. 2 (Copyright, 1924—F. L. Fagie)

MILLIONAIRE-TO-BE IS MULE HERDER ON TRIP WITH FRONTIERSMEN

This is the fourth chapter of "How I Made My Millions," by E. L. Doheny, now a millionaire oil man and figure in the Senate oil investigation. In previous chapters he told how he left his home at Fond du Lac to make his fortune in the west.

(Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

BY E. L. DOHENY.

Fort Leavenworth at the time would have been a paradise for any boy. For there were gathered the men who made the west, and later, the fiction that has been the joy of every red-blooded youngster—General Custer and Buffalo Bill; General Stanley and Texas Jack; Chris Gilson, Billy Smith, Little Rover, Red Clark, Ben Clark and many others.

There were gamblers there, and bad men, dead ringers and Indian fighters. And I was running a butcher's counter.

When I heard that an expedition was being organized to go into the Powder River country in Dakota, I could restrain myself no longer. I told Matt Ryan I had to quit. He gave me a note to Levi Wilson, a brother-in-law, who had charge of hiring help for the expedition. I was on duty. We drove down past Fort Bent, Fort Lyons, southwest to Trinidad, through Racoon Pass, where Dick Wootan's night herders held sway. It was a wild country and cattle thieves were rampant. So they armed me with an old-fashioned Spanish Spencer carbine, and gave me orders to shoot on sight without warning. One night I almost shot the boss herder when he sneaked up on me to see if I was asleep.

An escort of soldiers went with us part of the way. One of them came to me one evening and told me that there were snakes in his cot. I went to beat them out. The next day I was the laughing stock of the camp. The man had delirium tremens—and I didn't know what they were.

Between this drunk and the wild mules I had to handle, I was driven hard.

Finally we reached Santa Fe, and I joined the expedition proper, going with the Wheeler forces as a packer. (In his next article Doheny will tell of his first taste of prospecting.)

BACKERS OF ESSINGTON GET COLD FEET ON ELECTION BET

Make Frantic Efforts to Draw Down Five Thousand and Dollar Wager.

COLLAPSE OF BLUFF

Multi-Millionaire Tax Dodgers
of Chicago Did Not Expect to Be Called.

Kankakee, Ill., April 3.—The biggest political excitement of the present campaign broke loose in Kankakee today when a Kankakee stakeholder announced that Essington boosters were trying to back up on a five thousand dollar bet and were making frantic efforts to draw down the money.

The bet was placed yesterday in the hands of a local stakeholder, who, late this afternoon, was "sitting tight" because the Small backers were refusing to allow the money drawn. The collapse of this money bluffing campaign on the part of the Essington crowd was the sole topic of conversation here today in political circles.

Attorney Makes Bluff
The first bluff was made a week ago when a Kankakee attorney, one of Governor Small's bitterest enemies, announced at a dining table in a local cafe that he had $12,000 to bet on Essington. The announcement was carried to friends of Governor Small, who immediately started after the money. The attorney "passed the buck" and said the money was in the hands of someone else. For several days, Small backers were unable to trace it down.

Friday morning a certain individual notified the man who was handling the Small end of the money that he had $5,000 to bet on Essington.

"I am for Small but this money was sent in here from Bloomington and I am instructed to bet it on Essington," said the individual.

"Make it $15,000," urged the Small backer.

Money is Posted
"Five thousand is all I am authorized to bet today," was the reply. The Essington man said he did not have the cash, but he would put up a certified check payable on a local bank. This arrangement was satisfactory and the bet was made in the hands of a third party.

Early this morning the Essington representative called the stakeholder by telephone. He was almost frantic. "These fellows have backed out on me and that is my own money," he said. He begged to draw it down. "I don't want to lose that," he wailed.

Sky is Limit
The Small backers refused to let it be drawn down. They are ready to take any and all bets, they declared, regardless of the amount.

"We make no limits as to location or as the amount," said the leader of the Small backers. "If anybody in the state of Illinois has any idea that Essington is going to be nominated and is willing to back his judgment with money, let him bring his cash to Kankakee and it will be taken. The amounts cut no figure. The sky is the limit."

Reports that Essington money was abroad in Danville and Springfield reached Kankakee today, but the source could not be traced. It is believed to be a bluffing scheme on the part of multi-millionaire tax dodgers in Chicago who think they can change public sentiment by offering big bets on Essington.

Get Cold Feet
When it comes down to brass tacks, however, they are backing up because they are aware Governor Small is sweeping the downstate and Cook county in one of the biggest political landslides ever recorded in Illinois and the multi-millionaire tax dodger squeezes his money tighter than any one in the world.

"Bring on your money," was the final word from the Small backers. "Name the amount and we are ready to cover it. This goes for anybody in the state of Illinois."

Triangle Quintet All Set for Game

The Triangle club basketball team, owned and operated by "Moon" Reagan and Earl Larkin, as Manager and Captain are all set for their big game with a team of Intermediates Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Although starting at almost the close of the season as a club the individual members have been playing all season and are in good condition to put up a good scrap.

Rehearse Tomorrow Morn for Exhibition

All boys in the exhibition which takes place Friday evening will meet for the first and last time Friday morning at 10 o'clock for a rehearsal. It is important that every boy be present as this is the only time that the complete program will be rehearsed.

Intermediates on Hike This Morning

A number of the Intermediates started out this morning on a hike, destination unknown. Conditions are such as make it impossible for the rest of us kids to go hiking also, much as we would like to. Some of the Juniors have taken to fishing during the spring vacation but from all reports they haven't been able to catch anything, not even cold.

Bowlers to Sterling for Games This Eve

A team of Dixon bowlers will go to Sterling this evening to play a return match on the Sterling Y alleys with the I. H. C. team of Rock Falls. Several weeks ago the Rock Falls outfit were at Dixon, and were defeated on the Y alleys here. The Dixon pin artists hope to repeat the good work and bring back the cat in the bag.

A new species of spider with eight long legs, pink and striped with black has made its appearance in Colorado.

PREPARE FOR REVIVAL

Oliver E. Ekstrom, who is to lead the singing for the revival meeting at the Baptist church wishes to meet all the singers—old and young—at the church tomorrow (Friday) evening at 7:30, in order to organize the largest possible chorus. It is imperative that we have a right start if we are to have a great meeting. Everyone who can sing must come and contribute as much as possible to the interest of the meeting. As pastor I urge every member of the church and every one associated with us who can sing not to fail to be present tomorrow evening to meet Mr. Ekstrom. He is not only highly recommended by the Moody Training School from which he graduated, but has proved by experience his ability to lead a large chorus. He is also a fine soloist. Any singer in the city can well afford to join the chorus for the advantage of its personal benefit. Singers from all churches are cordially invited to come and help us when not engaged at their own church. The meetings will commence Sunday, April 6. And every Christian in the city is asked to pray for a glorious revival that will be a benediction not only to the Baptist church, but the whole community. The meetings will be so broad gauged that any one who loves the Lord and is interested in the better life of our people can join heartily in its services. What the entire city needs is a genuine, old fashioned, pentecostal revival. Let us have a great revival and get men's hearts right with God.

Glycerine Mixture for Gas on Stomach

Simple glycerine, buckthorn bark, etc., as mixed in Adlerika, helps any case gas on the stomach in TEN minutes. Most medicines act only on lower bowel but Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and removes all gasses and poisons. Brings out matter you never thought was in your system. Excellent for obstinate constipation. Guards against appendicitis. Thomas Sullivan, Druggist—Adv.

and the Sunday Closing of the picture shows—and all other forms of Sabbath desecration—will adjust themselves without a vote of our people. The house of God would be filled with anxious listeners to hear the message of the old gospel so rich in its blessings for the human heart. Let's have a great revival and enthrone Jesus in the hearts of men, and the Golden Rule will be the law of life, and every interest of our city will be based on right principles—"and all men's good will be each man's rule, and universal peace will be like a shaft of light across the land." Fish Never Grow Fat on Bait

The time has come for plain speaking concerning the buying and selling of motor cars.

Buyers should stop to consider whether they get the most that money can buy in their new cars when they are offered an excessive allowance on the cars they are ready to discard.

Some buyers believe they can fool the dealer. It can't be done. Beware of those who offer you more for your old car than you yourself would pay for it.

Every used automobile has a very definite value to the dealer. He knows almost to a penny what return it will bring him on resale.

Used car values are far more definitely established than new car prices.

You can mark it down as plain, simple truth that though you may believe you have driven a "sharp bargain" with some automobile dealer you have put nothing "over" on him.

Ample preparation is made for the buyer who "sells" his old car, primarily, rather than buys his new one.

You can't expect more than your used car is worth in trade without making up for it in the worth of the new car.

We have seen the growth of "trading margins", extra allowances, special discounts, inflated list prices to the dealer to permit fictitious valuations on used cars.

Bait! with hooks in it. But fish never grow fat on bait!

We believe these methods to constitute the wrong basis upon which either to buy or to sell any merchandise.

Stutz cars are not sold that way.

The man or woman who seeks unreasonable "trade-in"

allowances and the buyer dazzled by glittering superficialities should not reckon with the Stutz.

Stutz motor cars are sold on the basis of sane and safe merchandising, just as they are built to conform to standards of engineering which are never questioned.

There are in Stutz prices no alluring trading margins to permit fictitious used car valuations.

It's as plain as day that a car which permits the dealer to give excessive allowances on old cars tendered in trade must be "marked up" to allow for such trading.

Stutz cars are not marked up.

You can go to any Stutz dealer confident that he will give you all that your old car is worth, and at the same time provide full value without compromise in the new car he sells you.

Any Stutz dealer will gladly show you to a penny what his profits are on any Stutz car you buy and an investigation will convince you that Stutz prices and profits are wholly consistent with the quality of the merchandise you get.

Regardless of your personal measure of a fine car—whether it be mechanical excellence with the attributes of long life and stamina; performance, with the inherent ability to do the unusual, or, wholly exceptional and distinctive comfort and beauty, you are, positive of them in the Stutz.

Stutz cars could not be otherwise and be built and sold so honestly and conscientiously.

Should you care to go into detail concerning Stutz cars and their construction we will be glad to place a man and a car at your disposal, or will send you complete detailed information.

Perhaps you do not realize that today you can own a Stutz—a genuine Stutz—for as little as $1995, f. o. b. factory. "Never were cars so fine priced so low."

Fourteen body types. Three exclusive chassis. Scores of notable mechanical advancements. Lockheed-type 4-wheel Hydraulic brakes and Air Cushion tires optional at a slight extra charge

Price range, $1995 to $3785, f. o. b. factory

Senator Wesley L. Jones of Washington and Congressman Gilbert N. Haugen entered Congress on the same day—March 4, 1899—and they are still there. In the above picture they are shaking hands on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their entry into official life at the national capital. Senator Jones is chairman of the Commerce Committee of the Senate, and Mr. Haugen is chairman of the great Agriculture Committee of the House. They are both Republicans, and now belong to that small group of statesmen who have served continuously in Congress for more than a quarter of a century. The group consists of eight members—four Senators and four Representatives—and seven of them are Republicans.

OBITUARY

JOHN E. TRAHER

John Eugene Traher was born May 14, 1866, at Dorso, Shoshone county, New York. In 1874 he removed with his parents to Cohoes, N. Y., where he lived several years, beginning his training as a textile manufacturer. Later, he moved to Whitesboro and Little Falls, N. Y., where he continued the same line of work. In 1891, with his brother, George M. Traher, he moved to Perry, N. Y., where they purchased the Perry Knitting Co., and carried on a very successful business, until 1904, when he came to Dixon, where he resided one year. He then returned to Owego, N. Y., as superintendent of the Owego Knitting Mills, returning to Dixon one year later, because of failing health.

He was a member of the First Presbyterian church of Dixon, of Friendship Lodge No. 7, A. F. & A. M., and Nachusa Chapter No. 56, R. A. M.

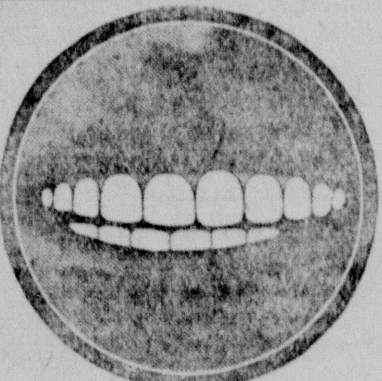

He passed away at the Presbyterian hospital, Chicago, March 25, 1924. He leaves to mourn his passing: his wife, Cora M. Traher; two sons, Ralph E. Mary Louise and Bessie Marion; two brothers, George M., of Perry, N. Y., and Ray H.; two granddaughters, and Peter J., of Omaha, Neb.; and one sister, Mrs. I. R. Gardiner, of Utica, N. Y.

Funeral services were held at the residence at 2:30 o'clock Saturday, March 29, 1924, Rev. Prentiss Hovey, Cause officiating and with interment in Oakwood cemetery.

No More Yellow Teeth!

New Discovery Removes Stains—Whitens Teeth Instantly.

A new harmless treatment has been discovered which—in just three minutes—gives dull yellowish teeth a beautiful pearly whiteness. This new discovery is called Bleachodont Combination. It consists of a remarkable liquid which cures and softens the stains—and a new kind of paste which gently removes them, and if used daily, prevents the formation of new stains.

All you need do is simply brush your teeth with a few drops of the Bleachodont then use the paste—and no matter how dull or discolored your teeth may have been—they quickly take on a new whiteness and lustre. Tobacco stains usually disappear after first few applications. Perfected by prominent Dentist.

Children's teeth are especially subject to stains, tartar and decay. In removing the stains, and cleansing the teeth, Bleachodont Combination retards the formation of tartar and is a great aid in keeping teeth sound and healthy. It is antiseptic and generally beneficial to both teeth and gums. Only a safe, mild preparation like Bleachodont Combination should be used on children's teeth. Gritty pastes should never be used. Get Bleachodont Combination today. Costs only a few cents. Money back if not delighted. Sold by good dealers, such as: Public Drug & Book Co.; Thomas Sullivan; Druggist; Sterling's Pharmacy; Rowlands Drug Store; Campbell's Whitehall Drug Store—Adv.

THE LAMB

Little lamb, who made thee?
Dost thou know who made thee,
Gavest thee life, and bade thee feed
By the stream and o'er the mead;
Gave thee clothing of delight,
Softest clothing, woolly, bright;
Gave thee such a tender voice,
Making all the vales rejoice?
Little lamb, who made thee?
Dost thou know who made thee?
Little lamb, I'll tell thee;
Little lamb, I'll tell thee:
He is called by thy name,
For He calls himself a Lamb.
He is meek, and He is mild,
He became a little child.
I a child, and thou a lamb,
We are called by His name.
Little lamb, God bless thee!
Little lamb, God bless thee!

He Fights a Good Fight For the People

GOVERNOR LEN SMALL

When the Legislature met in Springfield early in January, 1921, all eyes turned to our newly elected chief, Governor Len Small.

Governor Small had pledged a reduction in State taxes, a reduction in public utility rates, relief for the farmers, the construction of hard roads, the soldiers' bonus, the continuation of the Illinois waterway, a liberal support of education and the humane treatment of the thousands of unfortunate sons and daughters in our State institutions. His legislative program placed human rights above human greed. Could it be made effective?

Governor Small was at once the storm center of Illinois politics. His bills, introduced as the legislative machinery began to grind, were stubbornly fought.

Excessive appropriations made to the Attorney General during the last two years of the former administration had greatly distended the payrolls of Edward J. Brundage. Among his hundreds of payrollers were a number of House and Senate members or their "friends." In like manner, the ever increasing number of payrollers of the Chicago Sanitary District whose trustees were dominated by the McCormick-Brundage faction were also exceedingly hostile. The battle against Governor Small's legislative program was financed from the taxes of the people.

Governor Small proved himself a capable leader in the people's fight. He stood four-square upon all his campaign pledges. Before the legislative sessions closed, his pledges were written into laws. He has put them into practical operation as follows:

Governor Small reduced State taxes by lowering the State rate from an average of 47.5 cents to 43.3 cents for the same purposes, during the three years he has been in office. This reduction amounts to Five Million Dollars.

Governor Small saved the taxpayers over Seven Million Dollars by his veto of excessive appropriations.

Governor Small's Public Utility Commission has reduced telephone, gas, electric light, power, and street car rates to the consumers Twenty-five Million Dollars annually.

Governor Small's Tax Commission reduced the assessed valuation of farm lands 23 per cent or Three Million Dollars with a corresponding decrease in taxes. He gave our State the best and most advanced Producers' Co-Operative Marketing Law ever written into the statutes of any state in the Union.

Governor Small has approved an increase of over Twenty-four Million Dollars for education—an increase greater than the combined increases of any other three Governors.

Governor Small utilized the vast sources of income other than direct taxation that is paid in annually to the State Treasury, for the prosperity and happiness of the people. In drawing liberally upon these "non-tax" sources, he was able to make substantial reduction in direct taxation.

Governor Small collected only Twelve Million Dollars during the first two years of his administration to pay salaries of State officers, employees, etc. Whereas, during the first two years of the former administration, there was collected Twenty-eight Million Dollars for the same purpose. The difference of Sixteen Million Dollars was transferred to education and other State activities necessary to the general welfare of the State.

Governor Small has constructed over 2,200 miles of durable hard roads from license fees and at a saving of over Thirty-five Million Dollars from prevailing prices when he took office, and by refusing to let contracts at extortionate prices he was severely criticized by the Chicago Tribune, the mouthpiece of the allied profiteers.

Governor Small has perfected an organization of highway construction which is now building these hard roads at a rate of over 1,000 miles a year. The approval of the Hundred Million Dollar Bond Issue and the system of permanent highways anywhere a re-election of our Governor means the great—in the world will have been completed before the end of his second term without one cent of direct taxes.

Governor Small fought for and approved the Fifty-five Million Dollar Soldiers' Bonus bill which later was ratified by the voters. He caused to be built several new hospitals for maimed and wounded soldiers.

Governor Small has built the first great lock in Illinois Waterway, the completion of which means cheaper freight rates between Chicago and New Orleans and intermediate points.

Governor Small has erected several new buildings at Normal, for the use of the soldiers' orphans.

Governor Small has maintained an intelligent health program for the State and has provided sympathetic and humane management for the thirty thousand unfortunate sons and daughters of our State Institutions.

Governor Small is fair to labor. He protects property rights but subordinates them to human rights.

Governor Small is making Illinois a better State in which to live.

Upon this record Governor Len Small comes back to the voters for re-election—a greater man than he was four years ago. From out of the fire of persecution he has emerged with endurance, self-reliance, justice—qualities necessary to successful leadership as Governor of the great State of Illinois.

As in his former campaign, Edward J. Brundage, the Chicago Tribune and the Daily News are doing everything within their power, to defeat him. Although they failed miserably, they have never ceased to harass, persecute and malign him because he kept all his campaign pledges with the people.

For four years the Chicago Tribune and its allies have falsified all of Governor Len Small's official acts. No one has ever witnessed such a venomous campaign of political abuse and vicious vilification of intentional slander and premeditated mis-statements.

Their purpose is to arouse the persecution of hate against Governor Len Small because he has steadfastly refused to do their bidding. They hope, through these malicious maneuvers, to kindle the fire of spite in the hearts of the people and to prejudice the minds of the citizens against our Governor, so that, at the April Primaries, the people will vote against their own interests and their own welfare.

The unfair interests who profit by laying tribute upon the masses, have, through their controlled newspapers, deliberately planned to misrepresent the truth, and to suppress the facts about Governor Small and his administration. Public leaders have been silenced by direct purchase and others have been forced to come within their own political camp through threats of Grand Jury indictments. Many avenues of publicity have been closed to the truth and opened to falsification through the use of the taxes of the public by the way of misused payrolls.

Their plan of attack goes much further than simply to destroy Governor Len Small. There is at stake American Liberty—due process of law, the right of trial by jury, the right of bail, the principle that every man is innocent until tried by a jury, and in open court is declared guilty; the seizing of legislative halls by one group to make laws for their own selfish purpose.

We have the unparalleled example of a few self-seeking, un-American politicians and their spellbinders who have brazenly repudiated our Constitution, to give vent to their spleen and to place their own high-handed kind into office. This selfish coterie of political interests has united to secure for themselves and their confederates more wealth and positions of trust from the people that they may play their political traffic and illegal business unmolested.

In this campaign, as in the last, the people must rely upon letters, the United States mail, pledge cards, personal contact with each other, public and home meetings to carry on once more to successful conclusions, their own battle against predatory interests that threaten their own personal liberty and general welfare. That is just what is now being done throughout the length and breadth of Illinois.

Thousands of local meetings of neighbors and friends are being held in homes thrown open to Governor Small and hundreds of thousands of pledge cards have already been signed and forwarded to him. Great gatherings have filled to overflowing the halls wherever Governor Small has talked. Follow-up meetings have been held in many places and local leaders have addressed their friends. Every mail carries out more pledge cards and literature that tell the truth about Governor Small and his administration. We are organized, as last time, to win.

In this conflict there are but two sides. On the one, is Governor Len Small standing firmly for the people and their welfare; on the other, the Chicago Tribune and its subservient candidate for Governor. On which side are you?

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Sallie Peck, employee of the Fair Dealers, ten barrels with her policeman sweetheart, Michael Curtis. That night Sallie goes into the yard to take down a washing for Ma Brennan, with whom Sallie lives. A crash shakes the earth and something strikes Sallie a blow on the back.

When she regains consciousness, the girl finds herself in strange surroundings. A French maid calls her Alva Copeland and Madame Copeland, a tall, richly gowned woman, claims her as her step-daughter. Sallie meets Cousin Wheeler, who makes love to her. She resolves to solve the mystery of why she is being substituted for the real Alva Copeland.

Michael Curtis and his friend, Captain Trevor, start on the trail of Alva and Sallie. Sallie decides to pretend that she is acting in accord with the wishes of the Copelands.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Look, Miss Alva! Are they not beautiful?" the maid exclaimed gushingly as she took a huge bunch of violets from the box. "This envelope is for you, of course, but will this not be too chic against the gray of your robe?"

Sallie looked at the card to gain time to consider the most consistent move in this double role she was playing and arriving at a quick decision, yawned and threw the card face upward upon the table. It was a plain one and bore, in the peculiar slanting writing which had accompanied the roses of the day before, just three words: "Good morning, from Wheeler."

"I'll say they're all right!" Sallie exclaimed in as tough a manner as she could assume. "Cousin Wheeler's little white-haired boy, ain't he? Sure it was 'em this time. There's, but what's doing? Is he gonna call mornings, too?"

"Madame have invited M'sieu Sloat for lunch, I think, and as you are so happily recovered, Miss Alva, it is permitted that you again take your place." There's the head was bowed as she pinned the violets to the gray girdle but her tone was dignified and somewhat shocked. "Madame is waiting for you in her sitting room."

Broad sunlight streaming in at a great bay-window replaced the candle-glow of the previous day and the mauve room appeared larger and more austere in spite of its elaborate furnishings. Mrs. Copeland, too, as she rose to receive the girl seemed to have lost a little of her gracious poise and beneath the cosmetics her face was hardened.

"Good morning, Alva, dear—!" She bent forward as though to kiss her but Sallie drew back.

"Good morning, Mrs. Copeland," she responded deliberately. "I'm glad to get a chance for this talk with you."

"I—I don't understand!" Mrs. Copeland faltered, taken aback at the boldness of the attack.

"Oh, you not me all right?" retorted Sallie coolly. "You know I'm not your stepdaughter, this 'Alva' kid, and you know there ain't anything more the matter with my head than there is with yours!"

"If you are not my stepdaughter," Mrs. Copeland said slowly as she sank into a chair and mechanically gestured to another. "Who are you?"

"Don't you wish you knew?" Sallie sneered tauntingly.

"My dear, we all know about you!" Mrs. Copeland rose to the bait. "You are Sarah Peck, and you worked in a store in Shattlesworth."

"Sure I do! That's me!" Sallie interrupted, with elaborate over-eagerness. "You don't know who my folks are, though, nor the crowd I travel with!"

"We have ascertained that you had no relations but have lived with a Mrs. Brennan, and that a young detective sergeant of the police has been paying you attention."

Sallie laughed long and loud, and Mrs. Copeland eyed her with growing wonder.

"Paying me attention, eh? That's good! I ain't tying up with any bull, believe you me!"

Mrs. Copeland shuddered.

"You— you don't seem like the same girl you were yesterday!" she murmured. "Your speech, your manner—it does not seem possible."

"I can be a lady when I like!" Sallie flared up in pretended anger, then added: "There ain't no need of it now and besides, it's a nuisance."

"Nevertheless, my girl, you will find that it pays." There was a significance in Mrs. Copeland's tone not lost upon her companion.

"That's what I want to find out," Sallie remarked promptly. "How much?"

She felt stung when Mrs. Copeland put both hands to her temples in horror.

"Really, you must try to speak so that I can understand you!" she exclaimed. "I am prepared this morning to talk to you quite frankly and if you are a sensible girl you will see it is greatly to your advantage that we brought you here and took care of you."

"I wasn't exactly homeless, but I ain't kicking—yet," Sallie's reply was noncommittal. "I'll say you treated me fine so far, but what do you want of me?"

"Merely to stay here with me in my house as my stepdaughter Alva, and the fiancée—the promised wife—of my late husband's nephew, Wheeler Sloat. This—visit—may end at any time or at most in a few months hence."

Mrs. Copeland spoke slowly as though choosing her words. "You will be surrounded with every luxury, as you see; you will have all the best clothes you like and I shall give you some jewelry appropriate for a young girl which you may take with you when you leave us. At that time, too, if you will immediately leave this country and never return or communicate with any of your former associates, and will never mention this little transaction between us to anyone, you shall receive twenty-five thousand dollars."

She sat back in her chair as though prepared to receive the thanks of the girl but Sallie shook her head.

"Twenty-five grand is an awful lot of money just to be adopted and play the lady for a few months; too much, unless other folks are making such a killing out of it that it ought to be worth more to me. I ain't asking you what your game is, but I want you to tell me no questions asked, but how do you know I'd get away with it?"

"I am quite sure of that, my dear and nothing can go wrong, I assure you!"

"Mr. Wheeler Sloat." Pitch announced from the doorway with a slight cough.

Sallie turned and gazed straight past the advancing visitor to the footman, and to her surprise he winked and then made an unmistakable gesture with his head toward the hall.

"Dear Aunt Flo!" Sloat bowed over the hand and then turned to Sallie. "I see you are wearing my violets, Alva! And how much better you look this morning—!"

"Wheeler, is the door closed?" Mrs. Copeland interrupted. "Sit down. You are a trifle late at our conference, although I admit that our young guest here precipitated it. I have been explaining our little proposition to her."

"Indeed?" Sloat gave her a keen glance and then smiled at Sallie. "Then our little Cinderella knows the good fortune in store for her?"

"She does not appear to consider it in that light," Mrs. Copeland shrugged. "She seems to fear that something may go wrong with our plan."

"Oh, absolutely not!" interrupted Sloat. "There isn't a chance for a hitch anywhere."

"That's what they all say!" Sallie grinned. "I don't know your lay nor the gang that's working in it nor what some somebody says down on you, or snitches, or sells you out?"

As far as I can make out the real Alva since she was a little kid and you might stall that I'd been palmed off on you at the convent you were talking about yesterday."

"My dear!" Mrs. Copeland spoke again in horrified accents. "It is unthinkable that you could be recognized as other than my stepdaughter, but surely you know that we would protect your name that we would protect your name, the highest influence would be brought to bear to explain your part in our—our little joke."

Sloat had listened with a peculiarly shrewd expression to Sallie's speech, so vastly different from the mildly slangy, half-literate one of the previous day, and now calling still further upon her slender knowledge of the vernacular of crooks, he was gleamed from Mike's anecdotes of headquarters, she replied:

"That listens well, and maybe you mean it, Mrs. Copeland, but the only joke about it would be the legal advice and the high influence if I should happen to get pinched! I might take a chance for fifty thou, and promise to quit the country and not squeal when you've turned your trick if you've played square, but not for less."

Sloat stroked his hair and returned his aunt's uncertain gaze with a meaning one.

"My dear—ah, young lady, what you ask is quite out of the question! You are running not the slightest risk but are enjoying instead an experience which could come to you once in a lifetime. But let us leave that matter until my aunt has had an opportunity to consult with—ah, the others."

"There's something else," Sallie observed. "If I'm supposed to be this 'Alva' kid, do I have to do the society act? Meet a lot of awails, I mean, and all that? 'Cause if I do, it's all off! I could never learn to talk and act like you people in a million years and the convent stuff ain't in my line."

"Very sensible, my dear girl, I'm sure!" Sloat nodded. "The idea was that Alva was to be seen as little as possible under the circumstances, wasn't it, Aunt Flo?"

Mrs. Copeland nodded.

"That is exactly what we had planned. Although Alva was engaged to you she had been removed from the convent before her graduation because of her dear grandmother's grave condition and the same reason will suffice to postpone her debut indefinitely and avoid the necessity for her appearance at any formal social affairs."

"There's more than that on my mind!" Sallie announced with a quick glance at Sloat. "I wouldn't want to meet any of your friends—any of the dames who call in to see you."

EATING and DINING

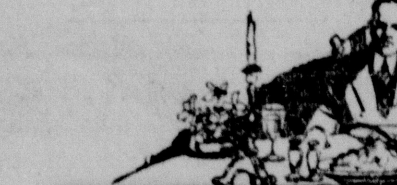

It may be true that "pigs is pigs" then you sit and munch. The noon day bite is really just a habit.

For all the time you're nibbling, there's a thought runs through your mind: You know you'll eat of home food pretty soon. And at your house for supper, some hours later, you will find the same display of food you had at noon.

When you eat in repetition macaroni twice a day it would almost seem a trifle out of line. But there really is a difference, folks who have, will gladly say, for at noon you only eat—at home you dine!

ROCHELLE'S CALF CLUB GOT AWAY TO EXCELLENT START

Twenty-two Boys and Girls Took Calves to Care For.

Twenty-two boys and girls drew for calves at the C. & N. W. ck yards at Rochelle Saturday afternoon and started a calf club contest. In spite of the very disagreeable rain and mud the calves were brought in in the morning as previously arranged by the club committee and the boys and girls came with their parents and friends, about forty all, to participate in the drawing to see the project started. The calves had been selected by the committee who had been named for purpose, consisting of Earl Cleveland, Wm. King Stanley Pierce and E. Warren, and who had worked for more than two weeks looking through the pure-bred herds in the locality to find a lot of calves suitable for the club contest. They were a nice lot of calves, all of breeds, of the Hereford, Angus, Shorthorn breeds, and giving promise of making profit for the members. New rope halters were provided for all the calves and they were each given a number.

Gardner Gave Talk.
Attorney C. E. Gardner was asked to come and talk to the boys and girls and he did so, explaining very early to them how the contest was arranged, what was to be required of a club member and how the allotting of the calves was to be accomplished. He stated that according to the plans each boy or girl was to take his calf home and feed it in any way that he thought best, keeping a record of the feeds used, in a book it would be provided to each contestant, and that he would be expected to bring the calf back on the 22nd of November to be exhibited and judged, at which time premiums of appearance and condition of the calf would be awarded upon the basis of the record. The contest would be to see who could have the best calf at the time of the exhibit. After the exhibition the calves will be sold either at auction or in a carload shipment seems best at the time. After each member had signed a membership card numbers were placed in a hat corresponding to the members on the calves and the boys and girls drew, taking the calf bearing the number drawn. The calves were then weighed and paid for at the price of 10 cents per pound which is exactly the price at which they are purchased from the breeders. The names of the contestants with their ages, parent's name and address are as follows:

The Angus calves were gotten from Stanley Pierce of Creston and Henry Harms, of Rochelle; the Herefords from Wm. King and C. Stela of Rochelle and Ervin Drexler & Son of Esmond, and the Shorthorns from Chas. Lewis of Creston and Jas. Carmichael of Rochelle.

The Calf Club contest is a community project sponsored by the Rochelle Chamber of Commerce, the Banks of Rochelle and Creston and the breeders in the community cooperating with the Ogle County farm bureau.

The local committee of which Earl Cleveland is chairman, have worked faithfully, giving several days of their time, free of charge, for the good of this community work in order that it might be entirely satisfactory to all concerned. It is now largely up to the members to do their part until the final exhibit and sale day.

bon companion in his characteristically humorous manner.

"Well, how's tricks?" asked Nick, without even cracking a smile.

Mr. O'Goofy, who is no part of a slow-wit himself, shot back promptly, "You'd be surprised."

Well, when the laughter finally subsided, the two got down to cases—speaking in a strictly non-alcoholic vein—and began to settle the affairs of the world.

that he would have White Rock in his this time.

"What do you think of our new manager?" inquired Altrock.

"What new manager?"

"Harris."

"I thought he was your veteran manager. He's been with Griff three weeks now, hasn't he?"

Mr. O'Goofy has a delightfully subtle way. We recall that Weber and Fields were somewhat like him.

"Where do you think you'll finish?" resumed Mr. O'Goofy.

Mr. Altrock's lips tightened. A vast silence enveloped him and he made it unmistakably plain that this was no place to discuss religious beliefs.

"I hear Walter Johnson is going to quit. Who'll Griff get to take his place?"

"Alexander, Uhle, Luque, Ehmk, Pennock and Rommel," answered the conservative Mr. Altrock.

The strains of an adjacent cabaret orchestra floated in on the warm spring night. A saxophone moaned, "Mama Loves Papa."

"Terrible stuff!" growled the esthetic Mr. O'Goofy.

"Well, why don't you stick to water, then?" demanded the senesible Mr. Altrock.

THE NUT CRACKER

Tampa, Fla.—One Punch O'Goofy was insistent that he must spend his time here with Nick Altrock, noted comic of the Washington team. "There's a funny bird for you," declares Mr. O'Goofy. "He can give me more laughs than both the Philadelphia teams put together."
